

REMARKS

Upon entry of the present amendment, claims 1-27 are pending in the instant application. Claims 1, 4, 6, 7, 9, 11, 13 and 15 have been amended. Support for the claim amendments presented herein is found throughout the specification and in the claims as originally filed. For example, support for the rigid polymer compositions and/or rigid polymer vehicles recited by amended claims 1, 4, 6, 7, 9 11, 13 and 15 is found at least at page 8, line 27 through page 9, line 10. Accordingly, no new matter has been added the amendments presented herein.

Double Patenting

Claims 1-5, 7, 15-21, 23 and 27 have been rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-13 of U.S. Patent No. 6,712,610 (“the ‘610 patent”).

In conjunction with the response filed July 26, 2005, Applicants previously submitted a terminal disclaimer over the ‘610 patent, along with the appropriate fee. The Examiner has indicated that the July 26, 2005 terminal disclaimer has not been accepted because “an attorney or agent, not of record, is not authorized to sign a terminal disclaimer in the capacity as an attorney or agent acting in a representative capacity as provided by 37 CFR 1.34”. (Office Action, page 2).

Applicants request reconsideration of the rejection of the July 26, 2005 terminal disclaimer and submit that this disclaimer was signed by an attorney of record in this case. The instant application is a continuation of U.S. Application No. 09/963,880, now issued as U.S. Patent No. 6,712,610. In the “Request for Filing a New Nonprovisional Application Under 37 C.F.R. § 1.53(b)” submitted on March 29, 2004, Applicants included a copy of the declaration/power of attorney signed by the named inventors, as well as a copy of the Revocation by Assignee and New Power of Attorney, which were filed in the parent application (i.e., U.S. Application No. 09/963,880). The Revocation by Assignee and New Power of Attorney filed on February 3, 2003 appointed all attorneys and agents associated with Customer No. 30623, Mintz, Levin, Cohn, Ferris, Glovsky and Popeo, P.C., including the undersigned (Ingrid A. Beattie, Reg. No. 42,306), who signed the terminal disclaimer filed on July 26, 2005. Applicants enclose herewith a copy of the following documents as evidence that the undersigned is an attorney of record in the instant application:

- Copy of the Request for Filing a New Nonprovisional Application Under 37 C.F.R. § 1.53(b), which lists all papers filed on March 29, 2004, including the Declaration and Power of Attorney from Parent Application 09/963,880 and the Revocation by Assignee and New Power of Attorney from Parent Application 09/963,880
- Copies of the Declaration and Supplemental Declarations filed U.S. Application No. 09/963,880
- Copy of the Revocation of Powers of Attorney and Appointment of New Attorneys and/or Agents filed in U.S. Application No. 09/963,880
- Copy of the Express Mail Label No. EV328182377US, date stamped March 29, 2004
- Copy of the return postcard received from the USPTO, which acknowledges receipt of all papers filed on March 29, 2004, including the signed Declaration (copy, 3 counterparts) and the Revocation by Assignee and New Power (copy, 11 pages)

Thus, Applicants respectfully submit that the change in power of attorney during the prosecution of parent application 09/963,880 was properly identified in the instant continuation application in compliance with the provisions of 37 C.F.R. § 1.63(d)(4). Accordingly, the July 26, 2005 terminal disclaimer was signed by an attorney of record in the instant application in accordance with the requirements of 37 CFR 1.34. Applicants request, therefore, that the Examiner accept the terminal disclaimer that was previously filed on July 26, 2005 along with the appropriate fees and withdraw the double-patenting rejection.

Claim Objections

Claims 9 and 13 have been objected to because of informalities contained therein. In particular, the Examiner has objected to the terms “the antibiotic” in claim 9 and “the treatment site” in claim 13 as lacking sufficient antecedent basis.

Claims 9 and 13 have been amended to maintain antecedent basis throughout the claims. Accordingly, withdrawal of these objections is requested.

Claim Rejections Under 35 U.S.C. §112, First Paragraph

Claims 1-27 have been rejected under 35 U.S.C. §112, first paragraph as lacking written description. According to the Examiner, the specification does not disclose “a rigid copolymer vehicle nor rigid copolymer”.

Applicants traverse. The pending claims, including independent claims 1, 6, 7, 9, 11 and 13, have been amended to recite a “rigid polymer composition” and/or a “rigid polymer vehicle”. Such rigid polymer compositions and vehicles are described throughout the as-filed specification. For example, at page 8, line 27 through page 9, line 10, the specification teaches that the polymers of the claimed invention are selected to have a level of rigidity required to accomplish the aseptic placement of the endodontic fiber within a root canal. Moreover, the specification provides examples of polymer compositions and polymer vehicles that have been sprayed with a biocompatible refrigerant spray to increase the rigidity of those endodontic fibers. Thus, the claim terms are literally supported by the as-filed specification.

In addition, the skilled artisan would understand that the plain meaning of the term “rigid” is “not bending or flexible; stiff and hard”. See e.g., Webster’s New World College Dictionary, 3rd Ed., 1996, copy enclosed herewith). As such, Applicants submit that the claimed subject matter was described in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventors had possession of the claimed invention at the time the instant application was filed.

For each claimed genus, the Examiner must determine whether there is sufficient written description to inform a skilled artisan that Applicant was in possession of the claimed genus at the time the application was filed. The written description requirement for a claimed genus may be satisfied through sufficient description of a representative number of species by relevant identifying characteristics, i.e., structure or other physical and/or chemical characteristics, by functional characteristics coupled with a known or disclosed correlation between function and structure, or by a combination of such identifying characteristics, sufficient to show the applicant was in possession of the claimed genus. In this case, the specification provided more than a representative number of examples of the structural, physical, and chemical characteristics of a rigid polymer composition of an endodontic fiber. For example, on page 4, lines 1-4, the specification describes fibers containing less than 20%, less than 15%, less than 10%, about 9.3%. To further define the correlation between function and structure, the specification states that the fiber has rigidity similar to that of gutta-percha, a naturally-occurring polymer that is rigid at room temperature. (See specification at page 17, lines 14-16). In addition to chemically regulating the rigidity by lowering the percentage of polymer compared to earlier flexible, tacky fibers, the specification also states that the rigidity can also be increased by spraying the polymer with a refrigerant spray to increase its stiffness. (See specification at page 13, lines 21-24). One of skill in the art would have no difficulty in understanding how to make a rigid fiber compared to a flexible fiber and the process for manipulating rigidity is entirely predictable. Thus, Applicants submit that there is sufficient written description to inform a skilled artisan that Applicants was in possession of the claimed genus at the time the application was filed.

Accordingly, this rejection should be withdrawn.

Claim Rejections Under 35 U.S.C. §112, Second Paragraph

Claims 1-27 have been rejected under 35 U.S.C. §112, second paragraph as being indefinite. According to the Examiner, the terms “rigid copolymer vehicle” and “rigid copolymer” are unclear.

As described above, the pending claims have been amended to recite a “rigid polymer composition” and/or a “rigid polymer vehicle”. Applicants submit that these claim terms are clear and particularly points out the claimed subject-matter which Applicants regard as their invention. As described above, the term “rigid” has a plain meaning that is particular and distinct. Thus, one of ordinary skill in the art would understand that the terms “rigid polymer” and/or “rigid polymer vehicle” signify polymers and vehicles that are devoid or deficient in flexibility. Accordingly, Applicants request that the Examiner withdraw this rejection.

Claim Rejections Under 35 U.S.C. §102(b)

Claims 1-3, 5, 21 and 22 have been rejected under 35 U.S.C. §102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 4,892,736 by Goodson (“Goodson”). According to the Examiner, Goodson describes a “fiber comprising a copolymer vehicle having incorporated therein one or more medicaments”. (Office Action, page 4).

Independent claim 1 has been amended to recite an endodontic fiber suitable for the local delivery and sustained release of one or more medicaments incorporated therein to an intracanal treatment site, wherein the fiber comprises a rigid polymer vehicle having incorporated therein one or more medicaments, wherein the fiber has a size and shape suitable for placement in a root canal.

Independent claim 6, as amended, is directed to a modified periodontal fiber suitable for the delivery and sustained release of medicament incorporated therein to an intracanal treatment site, wherein the fiber comprises a rigid polymer vehicle having incorporated therein one or more medicaments, wherein the polymer is treated to decrease its surface tackiness and wherein the fiber has a size and shape suitable for placement in a root canal.

Thus, these amended claims and their respective dependent claims (including claims 2-3, 5, 21 and 22) are directed to rigid fibers having one or more medicaments incorporated therein.

Goodson, in contrast, does not disclose or suggest rigid fibers. Goodson explicitly states that the fibers described therein must be “sufficiently flexible and formable to conform readily to the periodontal site to be treated”, i.e., these fibers are soft enough to bend around the perimeter of a tooth to make contact with the gum tissue to be treated. (See Goodson at col. 3, lines 32-33). Accordingly, this reference does not disclose every element of the rigid fibers recited by amended claims 1-3, 5, 6, 21 and 22. As such, the claimed rigid fibers are not anticipated by the teachings of Goodson, and this rejection should be withdrawn.

Claim Rejections Under 35 U.S.C. §103(a)

Claim 4

Claim 4 has been rejected under 35 U.S.C. §103(a) as being unpatentable over Goodson in view of U.S. Patent No. 5,114,718 by Damani (“Damani”). According to the Examiner, “it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to incorporate medicament of clindamycin to the fiber of Goodson, since Damani discloses both as known antibiotics”. (Office Action, page 5).

Claim 4 depends independent claim 1 and, therefore, contains all of the limitations recited by amended claim 1. As described above, claim 1 has been amended to recite an endodontic fiber suitable for the local delivery and sustained release of one or more medicaments incorporated therein to an intracanal treatment site, wherein the fiber comprises a rigid polymer vehicle having incorporated therein one or more medicaments, wherein the fiber has a size and shape suitable for placement in a root canal. Thus, claim 4 is also directed to rigid fibers.

As described above, the Goodson reference does not teach or suggest a rigid fiber. Moreover, the addition of the Damani reference fails to cure the deficiencies in the teachings of Goodson, as Damani does not describe or suggest a rigid fiber. In contrast to the rigid fiber recited by claim 4, the fibers described by Damani are “flexible and solid”. (See Damani at col. 2, lines 29-31). Thus, Goodson and Damani, alone or in combination, do not teach or suggest a rigid fiber. Accordingly, these references do not render the fibers of the claimed invention obvious. Withdrawal of this rejection is requested.

Claims 7-14 and 23-26

The Examiner has rejected claims 7-14 and 23-26 as being unpatentable over Goodson. According to the Examiner, “one skilled in the art would recognize that the fiber of Goodson is of a size and characteristics sufficient for positioning in a root canal and Goodson shows methods method of localized treatment with the oral cavity.” (Office Action, page 5).

Claim 7 has been amended to recite a method for the local delivery and sustained release of a medicament to an intracanal treatment site by (a) obtaining an endodontic fiber suitable for intracanal use having one or more medicaments incorporated therein, wherein said endodontic fiber comprises a rigid polymer; (b) positioning the fiber of (a) in the root canal such that the fiber is in direct contact with the treatment site; and (c) maintaining the fiber at the treatment site, wherein the medicament is delivered to the treatment site at a controlled rate.

As amended, claim 9 is directed to a method of treating an endodontic bacterial infection comprising the steps of (a) obtaining an endodontic fiber suitable for intracanal use having one or more medicaments incorporated therein, wherein said endodontic fiber comprises a rigid polymer; (b) inserting the fiber of (a) into a root canal such that the fiber is in direct contact with a treatment site in the root canal; and (c) maintaining the fiber at the treatment site, wherein the antibiotic is delivered to the treatment site.

Amended claim 11 recites a method of disinfecting a root canal receiving endodontic treatment by (a) obtaining an endodontic fiber suitable for intracanal use having one or more medicaments incorporated therein, wherein said endodontic fiber comprises a rigid polymer; (b) inserting the fiber of (a) into a debrided and irrigated root canal such that the fiber is in direct contact with a treatment site in the root canal; and (c) maintaining the fiber at the treatment site, wherein the medicament is administered to the treatment site at a controlled rate.

Claim 13 has been amended to recited a method of reducing inflammation in periapical tissue of a tooth undergoing endodontic treatment by (a) obtaining an endodontic fiber suitable for intracanal use having incorporated therein an anti-inflammatory agent, wherein said endodontic fiber comprises a rigid polymer; (b) positioning the fiber into a debrided and irrigated root canal such that the fiber is in direct contact with an inflamed tissue in the root canal; and (c) maintaining the endodontic fiber at the treatment site, wherein the anti-inflammatory agent is delivered to the site of inflammation.

Thus, these methods and their respective dependent claims (including claims 8, 10, 12 and 23-26) recite the use of a rigid fiber. As described above, Goodson does not disclose or suggest rigid fibers or methods of using rigid fibers. Moreover, the fibers described by Goodson must be “sufficiently flexible and formable to conform readily to the periodontal site to be treated”, i.e., the flexible fiber is soft enough to wrap around the unique geometry of the perimeter of an individual’s tooth to ensure contact with the gum tissue to be treated. (See Goodson at col. 3, lines 32-33). Thus, Goodson explicitly teaches away from the use of a rigid fiber, and, therefore, a person of ordinary skill in the art would have no motivation from the teachings of Goodson to modify the fibers described therein to generate rigid fibers. As such, the methods of the claimed invention are not obvious over the teachings of the Goodson reference, and this rejection should be withdrawn.

Claims 15-20 and 27

Claims 15-20 and 27 have been rejected under 35 U.S.C. §103(a) as being unpatentable over Goodson in view of U.S. Patent No. 4,003,810 by Hoyt et al. (“Hoyt”). According to the Examiner, it would have been “an obvious matter of choice to one of ordinary skill in the art as to the specific amount of a known material and as to its intended use”. (Office Action, page 6).

Applicants traverse this rejection on the grounds that the Examiner has failed to establish a prima facie case of obviousness. A prima facie case of obviousness requires some suggestion or motivation, either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available in the art, to modify the reference or to combine reference teachings. The teaching or suggestion to make the claimed combination and the reasonable expectation of success must both be found in the prior art and not based on applicant’s disclosure. In re Vaeck, 947 F.2d 488, 20 USPQ2d 1438 (Fed. Cir. 1991). See also MPEP 706.02(j).

Claims 15-20 and 27 depend, directly or indirectly, from independent claim 1 and, therefore, contain all of the limitations recited by amended claim 1. As described above, claim 1 has been amended to recite an endodontic fiber suitable for the local delivery and sustained release of one or more medicaments incorporated therein to an intracanal treatment site, wherein the fiber comprises a rigid polymer vehicle having incorporated therein one or more medicaments, wherein the fiber has a size and shape suitable for placement in a root canal. Thus, claims 15-20 and 27 are also directed to rigid fibers having one or more medicaments incorporated therein, wherein the fiber comprises an ethylene vinyl acetate copolymer comprising less than 20% vinyl acetate by weight.

As described above, Goodson does not disclose or suggest rigid fibers or methods of using rigid fibers. Moreover, this reference does not disclose or suggest fibers that comprise an ethylene vinyl acetate copolymer having less than 20% vinyl acetate by weight. In contrast to the fibers recited by claims 15-20 and 27, the Goodson fibers contain 45% vinyl acetate by weight. As Goodson explicitly requires that the fibers are “sufficiently flexible and formable to conform readily to the periodontal site to be treated” (col. 3, lines 32-33), a person of ordinary skill in the art would not have been motivated by the teachings of Goodson to modify the fibers described therein to produce rigid fibers. Thus, one of ordinary skill in the art would have no motivation to combine the Goodson fibers with the fibers described in the Hoyt reference.

The fact that references can be combined or modified does not render the resulting combination obvious unless the prior art also suggests the desirability of the combination. (See MPEP §2143.01, citing In re Mills, 916 F.2d 680, 16 USPQ2d 1430 (Fed. Cir. 1990)). However, there is no suggestion in the Goodson reference that would motivate a skilled artisan to modify the fibers described therein to contain less than 20% EVA to produce a rigid fiber. Thus, the fact that the Goodson and Hoyt references can be combined is not sufficient to establish a prima facie case of obviousness.

Moreover, an assertion that modifying the Goodson reference would have been within the ordinary skill of the art at the time the claimed invention was made because the cited references were individually known in the art at the time the instant application was filed is also insufficient to establish a prima facie case of obviousness without some objective reason to combine the references. (See MPEP §2143.01, citing Ex parte Levengood, 28 USPQ2d 1300 (Bd. Pate. App. & Inter. 1993)). Thus, the fact that the Goodson and Hoyt references were known in the art individually at the time the instant application was filed does not render the claimed fibers obvious, as there is no teaching or suggestion in the Goodson reference that would motivate one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the fibers described therein.

Accordingly, Applicants submit that the Examiner has failed to establish a prima facie case of obviousness, and this rejection should be withdrawn.

CONCLUSION

On the basis of the foregoing amendments and remarks, Applicants respectfully submit that the pending claims are in condition for allowance. If there are any questions regarding these amendments and remarks, the Examiner is encouraged to contact the undersigned at the telephone number provided below.
